

The Direction of Japan-Russia Relations and Impact on the Security Aspect of Asian Integration

Shinji Hyodo (hyodo@nids.go.jp)
National Institute for Defense Studies

Introduction: Confrontation with Europe and the United States and Its Impact on Russia's Integration in the Asian Region

1. The Asian Region for Russia as a Eurasian Power

- (1) Former Soviet Union, Europe and the United States Prioritized over the Asian Region
- (2) Strategic Partnership with China
- (3) Traditional Relations with India
- (4) Shanghai Cooperation Organization (SCO)
- (5) Japan

2. Japan-Russia Relations from a Security Perspective

- (1) Progress in Defense Exchange
- (2) Energy Cooperation
- (3) The Northern Territories Problem
- (4) Japan-US Alliance
- (5) Missile Defense System in Asia

3. Russia's Integration in Asia from a Security Perspective

- (1) Six-Party Talks
- (2) APEC Summit in Vladivostok (2012)
- (3) Chinese-Russian Coordination and Shanghai Cooperation Organization
- (4) Energy Export
- (5) Arms Export

Conclusion: Will Russia's integration in Asia accelerate?